The report explains the basis for the valuation, a list of limiting and qualifying conditions concerning use of the report, the appraisal of the items, and qualifications of the appraiser. If any other professional consultants contributed significantly to the report, their qualifications are also included. The report should be used in its entirety.

The value set for the appraised property is based on comparisons to similar items found in their appropriate markets. The value conclusions may be subject to limiting conditions set forth in the body of the accompanying report.

SCOPE OF WORK

At your request, I have identified the items listed in this report from digital images and descriptions provided by an AVI examination professional for the purpose of estimating the fair market value for estate taxation, as of October 11, 2020. This appraisal is subject to the basic assumptions and limiting conditions contained herein. I would also draw your attention to the glossary of terms and descriptions of valuation procedure, which are an important part of this report.

PURPOSE AND INTENDED USE

The following appraisal report has been undertaken for the purpose of determining the FAIR MARKET VALUE of the personal property described hereinafter. This property has been represented to the appraiser as owned by the above named Trust and was identified at our appraisal office. The intended use of this report is to provide a value of the items appraised for estate taxation. Furthermore, the value that has been set for the appraised property is based on the date of valuation.

DEFINITIONS OF VALUE

The report includes the following value for the item appraised.

“FAIR MARKET VALUE”, as used herein, has been defined by the Department of Treasury, Internal Revenue Service as:

The price that the property would sell for on the open market. It is the price that would be agreed on between a willing buyer and a willing seller, neither being required to act, and both having reasonable knowledge of the facts. It takes into account all of the many factors that affect the price of the property on the valuation date.

It is implicit in this definition that:

1. There be typical motivation by buyer and seller,
2. Each party be well informed and acting in their own best interests,
3. A reasonable and proper time is allowed for adequate market exposure,
4. Payment or settlement is made in cash or its equivalent,
5. Financing, if any, is on typical terms generally available in the community at the time,
6. There is an absence of special factors, which might have the effect of drastically affecting the price

This definition includes various anticipated acquisition costs which may result via:

1. Purchase from an owner or dealer handling a particular specialty in an appropriate market;
2. Engagement of an agent, commissioner or other consultant;
3. Attendance and purchase at a well-publicized public auction where comparable material is regularly sold.

APPROACH TO VALUE DEFINITIONS

COST INCOME APPROACH TO VALUE: The research and analysis of the cost of a substitute property with equivalent function and desirability, providing an estimate of the depreciated reproduction, reproduction new or replacement cost new of the property.

INCOME APPROACH TO VALUE: The research and analysis of the present worth of anticipated income.

MARKET SALES COMPARISON APPROACH TO VALUE: The research and analysis comparing sales of property similar enough to the property being appraised to permit detailed comparison, estimating value by comparison with properties sold in the relevant market, with adjustments made for all difference which affect value, such as differences in characteristics of value and in time.

ITEM DESCRIPTION

Authentication is not stated or declared. The appraiser renders an opinion on values, not authenticity or origination. The Principle of identification states that if a subject property possesses the same characteristics as an acknowledged genuine property then the subject property is assumed to be genuine. No further claim of authenticity is implied or intended.

Remote Identification, by the appraiser, of the described property was derived from images and descriptions provided by the owner(s), client(s), their authorized representative(s) or a professional examiner. The property is appraised as represented in the image(s) and/or description(s) provided. Information provided is assumed accurate.

APPRAISAL METHODOLOGY

After due consideration of the COST and INCOME approaches, the appraiser has utilized the appraisal methodology known as the MARKET SALES COMPARISON approach. The appraiser goes directly into the market place and compares data of similar type property in order to estimate the value of the subject property. After the appraiser collects comparable sales data, whenever applicable these sales are analyzed for differences such as:

Quality	Rarity
Size	Condition
Period of Execution	Time of Sale
Location of Sale	Provenance
Model	Literature
Medium or Materials	Mileage

Based on these comparisons the appraiser makes adjustments and reconciles the available data, thereby estimating the defined value for each item appraised. Sources used to determine value include:

- Individual retail sales
- Dealer List Prices
- Wholesale Market Prices
- Local and National Auction Prices
- Published Price Guides
- Internet

When specific current market data is not readily available, the appraiser has determined value by judging similar items, taking into consideration, and adjusting, factors listed above.

In the cases of out of production, one of a kind, or antique property, the value is for replacement of similar size, type, and quality property and not exact duplication.

ITEM CONDITION

Because item condition is a heavily weighted factor in the determination of value, the appraiser has included an indication of condition for each item. The conditions are defined as:

- EXCELLENT
Like new, no restoration needed

- GOOD
Typical for its type and age with normal wear and tear

- POOR
Restoration is needed and would greatly enhance its present value unless cost would exceed value

GLOSSARY

ACANTHUS: A semi-stylized motif that occurs throughout the history of art, notable in the capitals of the Corinthian order of Greek architecture.

CARTOUCHE: A painted, engraved, or sculptured ornament of irregular or fantastical form, enclosing a plain central space, usually oval or lozenge-shaped, used as a field for inscriptions.

CLOISONNE: A kind of surface decoration in porcelain enamel on metal and rarely, on pottery, in which each color area is surrounded by a thin line of metal that is flushed with the enamel surface.

CONDITION: Unless stated otherwise, the property described in this report is considered to be “normal condition” and will contain no specific reference thereto. Specific reference will be made to superior conditions adding materially to the value, or to defects or damage adversely distracting from the value, as compared to similar works or objects in “normal condition”.

DATED: Made around the date found on the subject.

FINE: Used only in this report as an indication of an excellent state of condition and not indicative of quality or value. It is applied primarily to porcelain and ceramics and to other items when appropriate.

FINIAL: In architecture, furniture, metalwork, and ceramics, an ornament that serves as the crowning detail, as the apex of a roof or gable or on the lid of a tankard or covered bowl that serves chiefly as decoration.

FLATWARE: Utensils or receptacles that are relatively flat, almost exclusively to pieces of metal, especially silver.

FLUTED: Closely spaced parallel or nearly parallel grooves, used to embellish moldings and other surfaces, commonly used in architecture and furniture for the decoration of columns and legs.

GILT: The art of adhering thin gold metal leaf to a surface to approximate the effect of solid or inlaid metal.

IMPRESSIONIST: Known as the first great modern art movement, the Impressionists broke away from the traditional technique of continuous brush strokes, from the representation of clearly outlined objects, and from preconceived notions of the color that things have in nature.

INLAY: To create a design or picture on a surface by inserting thin pieces of a material such as wood, metal, tile, stone shell, or ivory precisely in a series of shallow depressions or on a depressed ground, typically through techniques such as marquetry, mosaic, parquetry, damascene, intarsia, and pietra dura.

LIMITED EDITION: A set number of replicas of a work of art, of which the plate, mold, or die is destroyed or mutilated after the desired number of copies has been made.

MAJOLICA: An earthenware or faience of brownish-red body, decorated with heavily embossed, richly colored, glossy, opaque glazes.

MARQUETRY: A method of decoration in which small pieces of wood veneer, mother of pearl, metal, or ivory are inlaid in a floral or other ornamental pattern in a wood veneer or other surface, for use on furniture and paneling; also a decorative surface so produced.

MIXED MEDIA: The term generally applied to the use of two or more media in a single work of art.

ORMOLU: Gilded bronze or brass used as pure or functional decoration; literal French translation “ground gold”.

PASTEL: A colored crayon that consists of pigment mixed with just enough of an aqueous binder such as gum tragacanth to hold it together and a work of art produced with such crayons; the technique itself.

PERIOD: The use of the term “period” implies that the article is contemporaneous to the design period or reign attributed to it. If the item was not made at that period, it will bear the word “style” as part of the description (see “style”).

PRINT: Any one of multiple impressions made on paper from the same plate, block, stone, screen, transfer paper, or film negative; lithographs, etchings, engravings, woodcuts, etc.

RENAISSANCE: A comparatively brief but tremendously important period in Western European history and culture that followed the medieval era and produced the beginnings of modern thought.

ROCOCO: A style of art and interior decoration in the 18th century, especially in France during the reign of Louis XV.

SCULPTURE: The creation of three-dimensional forms by carving, molding, or assembly in various mediums.

STYLE: The use of the term “style” implies that the article is an intentional copy of an earlier design, although it may still be considered antique by virtue of age. The terms “style” and “period” are mutually exclusive.
